RULES OF JUVENILE PROBATION

If I am found guilty of a crime, I may be put on probation.

Probation lets me live at home in my communityas long as I follow the rules.

When I am on probation, I will have to follow rules.

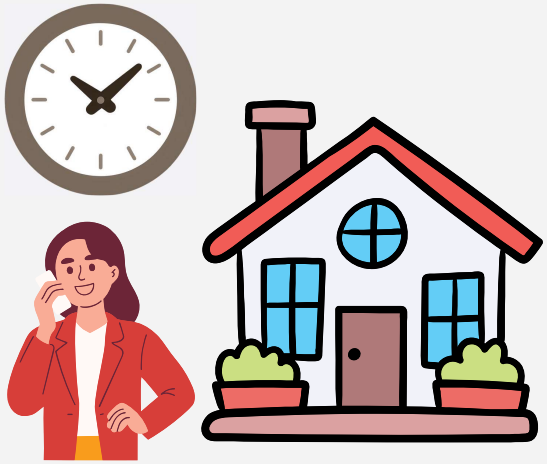

The rules are a direct order of the court.

I will be assigned a probation officer.

My probation officer makes sure I am following the rules, like being home on time, going to work, not using drugs or alcohol, and not breaking any laws.

RULES OF JUVENILE PROBATION

My probation officer will tell me what the rules mean.

If I don't understand a rule, I should ask my probation officer.

My probation officer may check on me at home, at work, or in the community.

I may have to take a random drug test.

I may have to do community service hours.

Community service is work I do for the community without getting paid. Like helping at a homeless shelter, cleaning up a park or working at an animal shelter.

RULES OF JUVENILE PROBATION

If I have sensory issues, I should ask my probation officer to think about these before giving me community service.

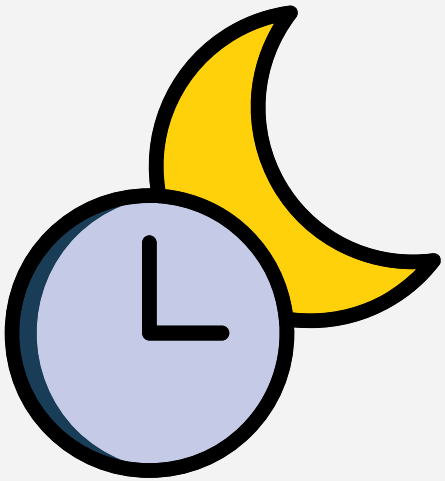

I may have to pay money for the crime I committed. This is called restitution.

I may also have court costs that I have to pay to the court. I may have to go to counseling.

I will have a specific time that I have to be home. This is called a curfew.

I could go to jail and have my probation revoked (taken away) if I do not follow the rules.

If I follow the rules, the court will decide when I can be released from probation supervision.
