

Relationships, Part Six: Strangers

A stranger is a person that you have never met before.

People walking down the street or shopping in a store are examples of strangers.

Sometimes strangers will smile or say "hello" if you walk past them, it's ok to smile and say "hello" back.

You shouldn't tell strangers personal things about yourself.

You should never get into a car or leave with someone you don't know.

If a stranger tries to talk to you, asks you to go somewhere with them, or makes you feel uncomfortable, walk away and find a trusted adult.

This campaign promotes the idea of body autonomy for individuals with disabilities. ASERT has partnered with researchers at the National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center at the Medical University of South Carolina to develop resources for the Be Safe campaign.

The Autism Services, Education, Resources and Training (ASERT) Collaborative is a statewide initiative funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.