

The Multi-Media Social Skills Projects for Adolescents and Adults teaches skills that are relevant for teens and adults such as how to effectively use humor and sarcasm as well as job-related skills like anxiety management. When choosing social skills to target, it's important to focus on skills that are relevant and meaningful to the individual. It's also important to consider life circumstances, goals, and skills needed to reach these goals.

Possible Skills to Target

Reading non-verbal communication

Starting and maintaining conversations

Finding and maintaining friendships

Dealing with conflict

How to Teach Skills at Home

Consider Short- and Long-Term Goals

Do they want to ask for a raise at work? Do they hope to find a romantic partner?

What social skills are needed to reach those goals: Assertiveness, active listening, speech fluency, etc

Learn About Identified Skills and Goals

Watch real-life examples and "how to videos"

Get some advice! Talk to people that you trust to get their opinion on good ways to do these skills.

Get Practice Using Skills

Participate in a social skills or other social/support group

Join a Toastmasters group

This information sheet was developed by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, and Training Collaborative (ASERT). For more information, please contact ASERT at 877-231-4244 or info@PAautism.org. ASERT is funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.