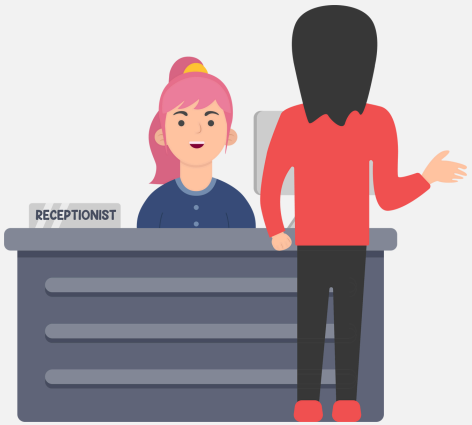
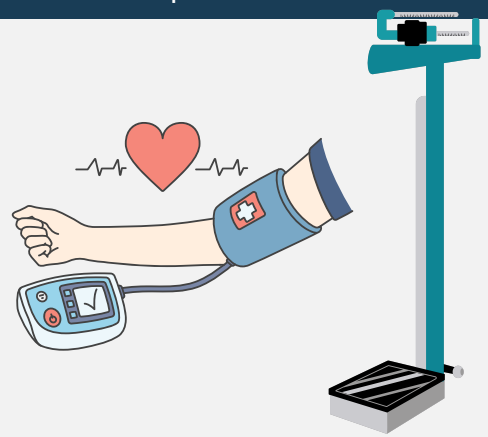
Dental Sedation in the Office

I am going to the dentist to get my teeth fixed.

I will check in at the front desk and then wait until they call my name.



The dental assistant will call my name and take me to a different room. They may check my height, weight, temperature, and blood pressure.



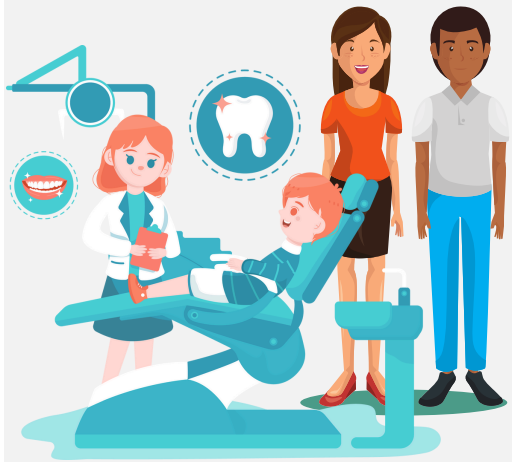
They may place a clip on my finger to check my pulse and how I'm breathing. It won't hurt.

The dentist will give me some medicine to help me relax and be calm during my visit.

I may swallow the medicine or breathe it in through a soft mask that goes over my nose and mouth.

Dental Sedation in the Office

When the dentist is done, I wake up in a special room with my family nearby.



I may feel dizzy or like I may throw up after I wake up.

My mouth may hurt.

The dentist can give me medicine to help.

When my dentist says it is okay, I can go home.

I may need to take medicine and eat soft food until my mouth is feeling better.

ASERT
Bringing autism resources together.

PAautism.org

Pennsylvania's leading source of autism-related resources and information
877-231-4244

The ASERT Collaborative is funded by the Office of Developmental Programs, PA Department of Human Services