

BEFORE A PAROLE HEARING

If my application for parole is accepted I will have a parole board hearing.

Correctional officials make up the parole board and will be at the hearing.

Before the hearing I can have correction officers, the parole agent, or other prison staff can review the process with me.

The parole agent can help me before and after the parole board hearing.

I may be able to practice for the hearing ahead of time, so I can be prepared.

I can ask the parole agent ahead of time if I can write down what I want to say.
